CHRYSANTHEMUMS

"The Chrysanthemum Man"

P. O. BOX 574

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA

P R E F A C E

TO MY MANY FLOWER-MINDED FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS.—Well, 1948 is over and 1949 is with us, and it is time to get out another mum list. Before I do this I would like to pause long enough to add that despite a rather poor start my mums turned out unusually well in 1948. In early spring they refused to develop good root growth; a nice-looking plant a foot tall, when dug would have but few roots (you may have noticed this on plants you received). Perhaps plenty of water and good rich soil made it unnecessary to develop much root growth. But be that as it may, up in the year they returned to “normalcy” and by fall the whole place was covered with nice growth and plenty of buds. The unusually long and mild fall of 1948 enabled practically all varieties to mature their buds—in fact I picked a few ripe tomatoes from a vine in the open garden the week before Christmas. Should I have similar trouble this spring I intend to transplant all plants one time before shipment, as transplanting induces the formation of good root systems.

In response to many requests that I get out my catalogue earlier, I am this year starting early enough to get this to you well in advance of the planting time. In return, if you are going to order any mums this year, please let me have your order early—the word “BUSY” is a rank understatement of my activities during shipping season.

Blooming dates are very much desired by most people who grow mums outside (as most of my customer-friends do), and I have included them. However, they are approximations only and I have leaned over backwards in trying not to convey the wrong impression as to blooming dates. If there is any error it will be that the variety blooms earlier (not later) than the date I have given. In figuring blooming dates for your locality, remember the blooming date advances as one goes north and recedes as one goes south. For instance a variety in full bloom here will not reach a similar stage in New Orleans until a week later. This should enable you to adjust the dates to your locality.

Delivery will be made this spring—from the last of March on, and will consist of small “plants”—not “rooted cuttings” that require potting up and growing on some time before they can be set in their permanent location. My plants can be set in their permanent location outside promptly on arrival. They will be shipped bare root, wrapped in damp moss and then carefully packed in excelsior.

I realize quite well that there seems to be a “racket” in the mum business—often a person will order certain particular varieties, state very specifically that only the varieties ordered are desired, care for them so carefully during the hot summer, and then have them bloom out inferior varieties that fall. It is sad to relate, but true nevertheless, that some growers will ship one’s order correct as to label—BUT woefully wrong when it comes to blooming. Nature seems to have unintentionally aided in this “racket”, as with few exceptions it is impossible to tell one variety from another in the plant or cutting stage.

Nothing makes me madder than to be duped in such a manner (and I have often been so duped), and I have resolved to make my little mum business unique in that you will get what you order, or if you permit substitution, to correctly label the plant I ship. Most of my business now is repeat orders—so that policy must be appreciated by discriminating flower-friends.

To carry out this policy it is necessary that I personally gather, label, pack and ship each order myself (which necessarily limits it to a small volume), and in return I would appreciate a postcard stating the condition of the plants on arrival, as well as any suggestions you may have towards improving my packing methods. (I have received some good suggestions from customers).

However, being human, an occasional error will occur, and in such cases I would prefer to know about it—rather than be judged guilty of deliberate mis-labeling.

Now this careful packing takes TIME, MATERIAL and STAMPS for parcel post, as all small orders will go forward by prepaid parcel post (Large orders at special prices will go by express, COLLECT). To cover this expense I am asking each customer to add $.50 to the total of the order when the same is $5.00 or less to cover transportation and packing costs. In cases where the order runs from $5.00 to $10.00 please add $.75 to the order, and $1.00 when the order amounts to more than $10.00. I practically always include a few plants gratis with each order, so you will be well repaid for this small additional charge.

If interested in quantity, most standard and not-too-scarce varieties can be furnished in lots of 25 and multiples thereof of one variety at around 12½ cents each, but please write me first the varieties you want and how many of each, before you order as some varieties are slow propagators and I could not supply them in quantity at any price.

Now about the English Chrysanthemums we are hearing so much about these days; it seems they came over from England to western Canada a few years ago, and from there spread over the United States. Even as late as 1941 few varieties were outside the State of Washington. Since then, however, they have moved fast—and with ever increasing popularity in the central and northern states. This popularity is largely due to the fact that most of the English varieties bloom well in advance of the really “big” mums seen in the florists’ windows each fall. Consequently, in localities where the real large mums can not be grown outside (without considerable protection) the English strain will often mature blooms, and while these blooms are not quite as large as the “exhibition” or “football” types they do afford large blooms in localities where the truly “big” mums can not be grown outside. However, in the “Deep” South it is possible to grow most mum varieties outside and while I will add a few English varieties to my list from time to time, I imagine I will continue to stick to the varieties I know. Owing to their earliness they do fill a distinct need farther north, and I have added a few to my list this year. As they are still in the experimental stage with me, I would appreciate your comments on the behavior of the English varieties in your own yard or garden in 1949.

During my over 15 years experience in dealing with the public I have found only rare instances of dishonesty—practically all people who grow flowers are scrupulously honest, but in order to protect myself in these rare instances I wish it distinctly understood that I give no warranty expressed or implied, as to description, quality or productiveness of any plants I send out.

With the above explanation and under the conditions stated, I am offering limited quantities of the mum varieties listed within.

P.S.—As a personal favor to me, after you have signed your name, PLEASE print your name immediately underneath the written signature. I have lost far too much religion trying to figure out people's names, and I am sure you will agree that none of us have any religion to lose.

P.P.S.—I have received a world of comment on the above postscript, but I still stick to my guns that nothing makes me lose my religion quicker than trying to figure out a half-legible signature, so I am leaving it in again.

While the chrysanthemum is my true love, I am not prejudiced against other flowers, and when I see something that I particularly like I add it to my collection. Occasionally I get more of some item than I have space for (my space is limited), and so am willing to pass the surplus along to my many flower-minded friends and customers. This explains the items listed below:

LYCORIS, Radiata: (formerly classified as NERINE, Sarniensis, or Guernsey Lily). This lily is truly regal, blooming as it does in the fall when the garden is usually bare of color. The bloom spike emerges from the soil before any foliage appears. The spike is from 10 to 16 inches tall and the typical lily-like blooms are watermelon red and particularly attractive. The strap-like, typical bulb foliage follows the bloom, and lasts throughout the winter. Hot weather causes the foliage to die down, and the bulbs stay dormant until the following September. One point to remember—the bulbs must be planted very shallow or you will get no blooms; barely cover the bulb with soil—that is enough. $1.25 per dozen bulbs delivered, or $6.00 per hundred by express collect. Shipment in May or early June so bulbs can bloom the following September.

JONQUILLA, Simplex: The old-fashioned, deep yellow, very fragrant jonquil so popular in our grandmothers' days. Too well known to describe. Mature bulbs are small and all may not bloom until they get well established; then plenty of bloom each spring. $.75 per dozen delivered or $4.00 per hundred by prepaid express.

LEI LILY: Various known as Ginger Lily or Butterfly Lily. By any name it is the lily used in Hawaii to make the lei garlands, and is equally pretty here. The blooms are white and very fragrant. One important point: while they do not like "wet feet", they absolutely require lots of water and fertilizer. If set in full sun and given plenty of these two items they will furnish a wealth of bloom over a long period. $.50 per root stock or rhizome—they are not a true bulb.
